*"Grant, O
to our*

A hundred thousand gnarled fingers of trees, bared to the last onslaught of winter, as if in compassion with Christ in His agony, have decked themselves with the gladsome green of April. The deep purple curtain of the March twilight has flamed into the golden glow of May's resurrection, and as June and the summit of the Holy Year approaches, all roads lead to Rome. For the mind's eye of millions is focused upon the dome of St. Peter's Basilica, while in our hearts we kneel in prayerful union with Our Holy Father and share his petition for peace and reconciliation between nations, and strength, purity and sanctity for all men.

The prayer, "Grant to us, O Lord, peace in our days", is one very close to our hearts, as we reach our "Commencement,"—the beginning of our lives. After four years at Canisius, the vista of our future opens before us, and the prospect, not pleasant, at times, makes us grateful for the power to pray. We face a world that laughs at God if it does not deny Him, that has little or no respect for the rights of men, that has ignored or forgotten the meaning of justice. We face it not with fear, but with fortitude, for we know in Whom we believe, we look up to Him Who has told us to have courage because He has overcome the world.

It is significant, then, that we enter upon this road of life in this, the year of Jubilee. It sets a keynote of confident, realistic optimism. We look back with gratitude to the four fruitful years behind us and forward with hope to the horizon ahead. We pray with the successor of St. Peter that God will bring back a deep, abiding peace to the hearts of men, and will give peace to our own hearts, a peace that only God can give, and that, come what may, no one can take away

DEDICATION

FATHER HARRY A. BOYLE

There comes a time during these days of high school training when some teacher ranks supreme in the eyes of his students. The time is now, that teacher is Father Boyle, genial instructor of Physics and class teacher of Senior C.

Father Boyle taught Mathematics and Physics as a Regent at Brooklyn Preparatory and Regis High School in New York City, and as a result, was a seasoned veteran in the field of teaching when he came to Canisius in 1948. Apart from teaching Physics, he has been the Moderator of the Science Club and has engineered the weekly lunch-hour educational movies in the foyer. His indefatigable energy has been the spark of the stage-setters behind the footlights of the Shakespearean productions given at Canisius during the past two years.

It has been our good fortune to have known Father Boyle not only as an excellent teacher but also as an inspiring Jesuit. We will cherish his friendship and remember his example for many years to come. We, the Class of Nineteen Fifty, dedicate this Arena Yearbook to him, extending our sincere gratitude and a promise of our prayers for continued good service in the army of the Lord.

REV. RALPH A. STURTZER, S.J.

This has been a unique year in the Annals of Canisius in that we have had four Student Counsellors within the course of a single year. It is only fitting then, that we pay tribute here not only to Father Reed, Counsellor since December, for the tremendous energy he has poured into his work, and the help he has given to us, not only to Father Connelly for his kindly and fatherly advice during his all-too-short term of office, but it is especially right that we express thanks to Father Curtin and Father Sturtzer, not only for ourselves but for Canisius men of many years standing who have not and will not forget either one of these wonderful Jesuits for their years of unstinting service. The alumni who knew the halls of the old school at Washington Street remember well the confidence and sense of security that Father Curtin's presence and advice imparted. And closer to our own time, many were the kind and re-assuring words that Father Sturtzer shared with those who pioneered in our new school here on Delaware.

To those who have gone, to Father Reed, still with us, we wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and wish them God's blessing for what they have done for ourselves and those before us, for what they will do for others in the years to come.

TREASURER'S OFFICE STAFF

Coadjutor Brothers

May these few words be a worthy commendation for our Coadjutor Brothers, the men behind the scenes here at Canisius-on-Delaware, whose work is too often left unmentioned. The life of a Jesuit Brother, with most of his work unsung and unseen, is in every sense of the word a life of real faith and his real reward comes not now but hereafter.

To Brother Rosenecker, ever on hand in the Treasurer's Office, to Brother Wolfe, the sacristan of our chapels and custodian of the kitchen, to Brother Sterling and Brother Vogelsang for the furnaces they have fired, the lights they have lit, the hundred-and-one jobs they have done around the school from roof to basement, our thanks. May Our Lord grant them many graces now and in the years to come.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

With only a few short days more to spend in the familiar halls of Canisius, pause for a while before our high school years become only memories, and slip back to that time ages ago when we first pulled open the massive doors of school for our . . .

FRESHMAN YEAR: 1946-1947

Bewildered on registration day by all the forms and questionnaires, we felt insignificant among the three hundred in the class. Somewhat envious of the annoying confidence of the lordly Sophomores, we didn't place a very high value on the honors bestowed upon us in grammar school, especially after those IQ tests. Truly greenhorns, we found that those phenomenal marks we received in spelling didn't help us very much when we discovered the unlimited possibilities of X, the complexities of the third declension, and the exacting definitions of Civics.

Fascinated by the endless chain of corridors and stairways, we spent the first few weeks exploring the inner recesses of the school building. We were suddenly and rudely shocked out of our complacency the day we were first threatened with a subtle form of discipline—JUG. Although by now, in our last year, many of us have become hardened to it, still at that time we all froze at the command, "Report after school to Father Rowley for two periods of Jug."

After a brief introduction to our studies, we were privileged to make our first retreat under the direction of Father Redmond, then the President of the High School. Toward the end of November a bulldozer startled dozing students as the first steps were taken toward building the new wing on the school. Immediately some discussion arose between the faculty and the students over how much class time should be given to superintending the operation, but this problem was quietly settled for us when the excavation became so deep that the work was hidden from the classrooms.

After the first four months of toil, we waded through the January exams and waited in fearful expectancy for our marks. When they finally came out most of our fears proved groundless, yet when we returned to school after the term holiday we resolved to work even harder for the final exams.

After we struggled through a few excerpts from Caesar, doubting that they had been so terrifically simplified as claimed, we found summer rapidly approaching. Any pleasant thoughts of the nearing vacation were postponed by the June exams. How easy they would seem to us now! Yet we spent six days in fervent prayer and mental anguish, only to give sighs of relief and a few of grief when the verdict was finally given. We left our Alma Mater for a time to recuperate and return, rarin' to go for our . . .

In September we returned to the now familiar halls as kings of the castle, the former sophomores having abdicated to the Washington Street Building. The Freshmen seemed unbelievably naive, so we felt it only our duty to let them in on the horrors of the dungeons, jug, Latin, exams, and, of course, adding all the little details that we could remember, and supplying some additional ones.

We were honored to have our second retreat given by Father Paone. His sermons inspired us to strive for higher standards in our daily lives. Settling down to our studies once more, we were dismayed to find that all those hours we had spent figuring out the devious methods of X helped us little in Geometry class. We were forced to bisect perfectly innocent angles with a sharp and deadly weapon called a compass, which always made irregular circles no matter how hard we tried. Caesar made an interesting guide, so we followed him all over the three parts of Gaul. We felt he could have settled many of his problems much easier if he only had had a good Jeep.

This year we had a fleeting glimpse of army methods as Father Haggerty took over Jug classes. A touch of khaki showing beneath his cassock betrayed his former career as a chaplain.

In our sophomore year, we succeeded in placing Jack Weimer, Jim Denny, and Dick Griffin on the first football squad, while Al Wukovits honored our class by getting a berth on the basketball varsity.

After the usual last-minute cramming, we struggled through our third bout with exams, somewhat the worse for wear. Back again to our studies, we sympathized with Jean Valjean, whose endless troubles resembled the plots of the current radio daytime serials. Others in the German class could hardly believe the amazing Til Eulenspiegel with all his incredible tricks.

We enjoyed English class these days as we read in Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" that our tormentor of Latin class was finally stopped from writing any more books. In geometry we never did quite puzzle out all this talk about locus, but we learned that if you squashed a square, you had a squashed square called a rhombus.

The months began slipping by very fast to the tune of Sohrab and Rustum, inscribed and circumscribed polygons, and a whole new flock of ablatives. Once more we loafed during Easter vacation and then had to make up by working hard during review. Despite all dire predictions, most of us succeeded in passing the final Province exams, and in lighthearted mood we filed out into the June sunshine, free for three blissful months until we were summoned in September for . . .

JUNIOR YEAR: 1948-1949

When we of the class of '50 returned to Canisius following the summer recess, we came back only to be heralded by two astounding changes. The new wing was completed at last. The structure which for two years we watched rise from a hole in the ground to the latest in ultra-modern construction, was ready for our occupancy. Washington Street was forsaken forever and once again the entire school was united as it should be. Very Rev. James J. Redmond, S.J., remained as Pastor of St. Michael's parish, and Very Rev. James R. Barnett, S.J., took over as President and Rector of the new Canisius. It was under the guidance of this man that Canisius High School was destined to prosper so fruitfully in the ensuing two years.

We were Juniors now and we prided ourselves that the Frosh looked up to us as old timers around the place. A delightful old fellow from ancient Rome who answered to the surname of Cicero began to plague our evenings with his ravings and rantings. Science and Greek reared their heads around the corners of our desks with the foreboding warning, "Don't forget us, pal!" Indeed we were back at 1180 again. The first extra-curricular activity began to issue its call for participants was that venerable institution, Jug. Fr. Kirsch welcomed all candidates with a smile and open arms. The Citadel, under the capable direction of Mr. Cameron, S.J., was the new school newspaper which was well received by all and its literary value was not to be denied.

In October our annual retreat was given by Fr. Harry Boyle. After a week's respite from studies, we again plunged into the depths of Algebra and modern language and a semester chockful of excitement. A determined band of football players, studded with Junior stars, took the field under the bright arcs of Civic Stadium and proceeded to trim a hitherto unscored-upon St. Joe's eleven, 14-9. The blue-clad Crusaders were a championship squad that brisk October evening and they stunned their favored foe from the outset. Here was the athletic highpoint of the year! Soon the winter winds were whistling off Lake Erie but Fr. Dolan kept nice and warm prodding his theatrical prodigies to perfection. After a lapse of many years, the Dramatic Society had undertaken the presentation of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar." Tremendous was the obstacle confronting them but these young thespians persisted and their efforts were acclaimed with praise by the city's dailies. Everyone said, "Hats off" for a job well done.

We thought that the teacher didn't exist who could outwit us (that is outwit us in the matter of provoking hilarity and expounding jokes in the classroom) but can anyone ever recall when we could surpass Mr. Farrand, S.J.? Ronny Koch and Roy Bakos gave it a noble try but were soon foiled. Who will ever forget him? Soon the mid-years were upon us and it was the same old story of diving in and breaching the channel. However, we were Juniors now and we scoffed at them with the nonchalance of battle-worn veterans. Ronnie Becht, our silver-tongued orator, spread far and wide the name and fame of Canisius while competing in the American Legion Oratorical Contest. He advanced to the zone finals under the tutelage of Fr. Paone and only a Junior at that!

Things were really wheeling at this stage. Cicero was doing business at the same old stand along with his compatriot, Mr. Ovid. Trig was perplexing to say the least and everyone thought they were atom scientists with all those formulas. Speaking of Trig, Fr. Persich had the bowling alley well-creased and prospering while some of his boys spent their afternoons copying P. 189. The basketballers played their top game of the year against the Maroon from Main St. as they took them into camp and threw the race into a three way deadlock. Bob Rodgers and Al Wukovits consistently meshed the nets to cap a great season with a great win.

And so the sun set on Junior year. Ken Schwarz was chosen Sodality Prefect, the exams were taken and all was in readiness for our last, our Senior year at Canisius High.

SENIOR YEAR

Senior year! Following three years of looking up, we now ruled the roost, ran the show, with a certain restraint, of course, exercised by the omnipotent authorities. Seniors! That was a magic word, an "open sesame" of supremacy and we were it. School was the same on the surface but we were not ones to disregard the special privileges extended to the seniors. The world seemed rather rosy.

After our early October retreat, conducted by Father Barnett, we plunged diligently (?) into our scholastic curriculum, as we endeavored to shake some of the cobwebs from between our ears. Cicero and his distinguished ancestor, Aeneas, occupied many of our evenings while Physics was anything but a snap. Perhaps our studies were difficult, yet school was never drudgery what with each new day always providing a laugh.

Being the traditional school leaders, as seniors we took over the reins of the various school activities. The Student Council was capably presided over by head-man, George Zenger. Tom Heffernan guided the destinies of the Citadel in its sophomore year. The newspaper, so well-received in its fledgling year, rose to greater heights in '49-'50. The Quarterly, with Jerry Moga at the helm, ran off with the scholastic press awards, as usual, and thus our final year on Delaware Avenue had started off with a resounding bang.

Captain Willie Johnson and his gridiron greats were top-notch. The Crusaders were a team of destiny, loaded with senior ball-players, who took a backseat to no one. The school desperately wanted one victory delivered by this ball club. That one goal was a triumph over St. Joe's and on the sun-drenched turf of Civic Stadium in early October, the Main Streeters were taken through the hoop for the second year running. The season was a splendid success.

The time flew and we never did know where it went. Soon it was December and time for the play. Macbeth was this year's production and the Dramatic Society presented two performances that undoubtedly had old Will Shakespeare stroking his beard and cracking an approving smile. Who can ever forget Ron Becht as the stern Macbeth, or Tom Daley as the revengeful Macduff or Buck Leahy and his beard or Joe Valenti toting around a lantern almost as big as himself. In no time at all the hoopsters were holding forth with a quintet of court-wise sharpshooters. Al Wukovits and his blue and gold band topped a winning season in Memorial Auditorium, splitting two playoff games.

And so now we culminate our four years at Canisius High School with graduation. As we look back and recall all our experiences, sometimes we think of the petty troubles and yet each little tribulation seems to be overshadowed by a thousand other laughs, real friendships and good times. Our connections with Canisius as students are completed but in truth we'll never be through with something we know as well as we know this school. We won't forget those deep-seated ties and relationships which we have formed. It is often said that high school is the happiest time of one's life. We cannot vouch for that now because we have yet to live the rest of our lives. But this much can be said right now, that the rest of our stay on this old ball of mud has a rough row to hoe before it takes first place over some of the wonderful days we've spent at Canisius High School.

Canisius Marching Song

Canisius! Canisius!

When the battle rages strong,

We'll cheer, men! We'll fight, men!

Though the struggle's hard and long.

With shoulder to shoulder

As Crusaders stout and bold,

We will pledge ourselves to conquer,

For Canisius Blue and Gold.

So, sing, men, and swing, men,

Till the bands no longer play!

With arms linked, and hearts linked,

In our old Canisius way.

Forever, forever,

Till the dying sunset's flame,

Till the last, faint glowing ember,

Sing the glory of her name.

Canisius, Alma Mater,
The glory of thy name,
Thy wisdom strong,
We sing as long
As memories remain.

Thy voice is mighty,
Linking our years,
Mighty thy memories
Through hopes, joys and fears.

Canisius, mighty power,
Thy sons keep true and bold,
Their love for thy honor,

SENIOR - JUNIOR SODALITY

Towering above all the other activities here at Canisius is the Sodality of Our Lady. The purpose of the Sodality is firstly personal sanctification and secondly the sanctification of others. In this way every sodalist is a true son of Mary and a sincere brother of Christ.

Practical charity has an important place in the work of the Sodality. At Christmas time, nearly three hundred baskets of food were distributed to needy families. The Lenten Mite-Box drive was the source of help in a financial way for the Missions.

This year, the Western New York High School Sodality Symposium was again held at Canisius. The principal speaker was Father Herbert Walker, S.J., of The Queen's Work.

Braun, Moderator, E. Doyle, John Weimer, Vice-President, Nowak, Secretary.*

The chief function of the Student Council is to serve as a bond between the students and the administration. Through their class presidents, the students present their ideas and discuss ways and means of improving school spirit, of keeping the name of Canisius high in esteem throughout the city.

George Zenger carried the ball as president, and in the brief thirty minute meetings each week, time was often found for humor. Jack Carney carried his debating talents into this assembly and hot discussions were often the bill of the day with Jack Weimer as his opponent.

As always, the hardest task the president had was to persuade the Freshmen to speak their minds. 'Mum' was the word with these lads and any brilliant ideas that may have been budding in their minds were hidden in golden silence.

THE DRAMATIC SOCIETY

Pawlowski, Becht, Joyce watch Joe Valenti go through his motions.

Zolkiewicz talks Becht into murder.

Once again the rafters of Canisius rang to the immortal lines of Shakespeare, this time to one of his most difficult and forboding plays, "Macbeth".

Armed with his previous success in "Julius Caesar", Father Dolan, the Dramatic Society's skilled director, held try-outs to determine who would be the ambitious Macbeth and his more ambitious wife. This probably was the most difficult part of the entire play, for there were many who would be able to play the parts "well", but Father Dolan wanted something more. After all had been heard, two voices stood out among the others, two actors who had what Father Dolan wanted. So Ronnie Becht got the part of Macbeth and Ted Zolkiewicz that of Lady Macbeth. Other major roles were assigned and rehearsals began.

Hampered by the lack of time, the cast worked nearly every day and well into the night, but they were determined to be a success.

The big night arrived. Slowly the scenes slipped by, recalling the laughs they had and the mistakes they made during rehearsals. But they couldn't laugh now — this was it!

And then the final curtain dropped. Everything was hushed as the cast waited. Had they been a success? The applause assured them. The play was a smash hit!

Laurels were being handed out to everyone. Ronnie Becht was "magnifico!" He held the audience spellbound with his splendid interpretation of the murderous, bewildered Macbeth.

Everyone was praising the amazing acting of Ted Zolkiewicz as the plotting and ambitious Lady Macbeth.

Special credit must be given to Joe Valenti, who took on a double job during the play — first, as lead violinist in the orchestra, and second, as the drunken porter in the famous scene after the King's murder. One of the high spots of the play, Joe's performance was worthy of Hollywood's "Oscar".

Notable in the major supporting roles were Gerry Leahy as the ill-fated King of Scotland, Bill Joyce as Banquo, Tom Daley as Macduff, and last, but not least, Don Swanz as Ross. (Remember Brutus?)

But who will forget the eerie sight of the three glamour-girl witches, alias Bob Racicot, Joe Rice, and Gerry Schabel?

Special commendation is also due to Father Harry Boyle and his stage crew, and to Father Cohalan and his business staff. Thanks largely to their untiring, hidden work, "Macbeth" will be long remembered as a triumph for the Canisius Dramatic Society.

1. "Knock! Knock! Knock!"

2. "Double, double, toil and trouble!" Hecate,—Zimfer, calls signals for the three witches,—Rice, Racicot, Schabel.

3. "I'll go no further in this deed!"

4. "To bed, to bed, to bed."

5. "Fly, mother, he has killed me." Koch, the villain, Eric Barth, the victim, Dick Wisniewski, Lady Macduff.

This year, Behrens engaged in forty-three interscholastic debates, and won the coveted membership in the National Forensic League for eighteen of its members, including an honorary membership for Mr. Farrand, S. J., last year's Moderator. Certificates of membership are proudly displayed on the walls of the new Debate Hall.

The debaters aim at achieving the perfecta eloquentia of the Jesuit code of studies by developing their ability to express clearly and forcefully a carefully reasoned and interestingly presented line of arguments in the lively give-and-take of a debate.

Becht points out a reference for Joyce.

ORATORS

Successful oratory has always been the pride of Canisius, and this year was no exception. Under the capable direction of Father Paone, S.J., William Joyce, John Carney and Ronald Becht reached the county finals of the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Oratorical contest, Becht placing first. Becht also reached the county finals in the American Legion contest only to lose by the closest of margins.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

A great task was theirs, to retain a hard-won trophy for the league championship. To say they were incapable of fulfilling their job would be slander. To say "that's the way the ball rolls" would be the best expression.

After a month's work at their dust bowl and at Canisius College villa, our varsity gridders were ready.

Al Donius was the big power as they rolled over Ryan, 28-6 at North Fillmore Stadium.

Timon was next to feel the machine-like precision of the Canisius line of tanks that blasted holes in a tough Timon forward wall for a 26-12 victory.

St. Joe's showed a fine ground attack, but nothing to compare with George Zenger's superlative job as he passed for two touchdowns and called the signals for an 18-13 triumph.

Duffy was the team to beat and, despite the loss of Hank Adema, a determined eleven took the field at Niagara Falls. If games were won on total offense, the score might have been different. The Rapideers turned back every scoring bid and wound up on the long end of a 19-0 count. It was evident that without Adema, Ronnie Koch and Al Donius in the line-up, Canisius was only a skeleton of its former greatness.

Fate was to have her play. Possibly because she had given us a 7-6 victory last season, St. Francis received one this year. Playing as if in a trance in the first half, the Crusaders worked like men possessed in the second. Jack Weimer almost pulled the game out of the fire, but St. Francis had seven points to our six. We wonder if Coach Barnes' half-time talk had anything to do with the second-half rally Canisius staged.

Still one game was left. One game that the veterans wanted as their going-away gift to their coaches, Mr. Barnes and his assistants, Al Petrella and Jim Naples, as their last tribute of gratitude to Father Burns, Moderator of Athletics, for his unflagging spirit, interest and assistance. Naturally, they were expected to win, but would they play as they did against St. Francis? Not tonight! It was the night for Bill Johnson, Jack Weimer, Al Donius, Ed Jurewicz, Ron Koch, Jerry Glasser, George Zenger and Aug Taglienti to say goodbye to Canisius football. When the smoke had cleared, it was Canisius 44, DeSales 6.

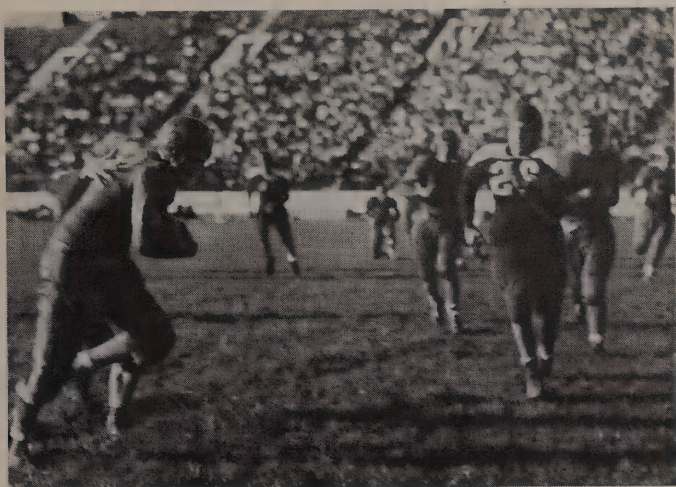

Postseason laurels were heaped on the shoulders of Ron Koch, Jack Weimer and Al Donius. They hadn't won another championship, but they had led a team of which Canisius could be proud.

JUNIOR

The Junior Varsity was a potent aggregation this year and gave promise of power-packed potentialities for Varsity outfits of the next few years. Plenty of weight on the line along with speed in the backfield molded a golden combination that made itself felt in every game. The 'T' combo of Hohl, Regan and Crowe, with Labinski as Toastmaster, rang rings around their opponents. Skip Crowe scored each time he carried the ball in the Nichols game. Kenmore, expecting to swamp us, was rudely surprised and barely maintained their slender lead in a battle that was hard fought right down to the closing whistle.

Following the lead of the Varsity, the J-V squad romped over the traditional rivals, formerly of Main Street. The taste for victory was cooled only by the disappointment of two cancelled games. Because of schedule difficulties on the part of would-be opponents, only four games were played instead of the six originally planned. Here is the roster:

Canisius 19	Burgard J.V.	0

VARSITY BASKETBALL

After dropping their initial contest of the 1949-50 season to a definitely underrated Neumann team, the Crusaders bounced back two days later to edge DeSales 44-42. Annunciation became the next victims to the tune of 56-30, and the knights were up to form. On December 14, the team played host to undefeated St. Joe's quintet. For three quarters the Crusaders managed to keep one jump ahead of the former Main Streeters, only to wilt in the last quarter under the determined attack of the Maroon and White. St. Joe's came out on top, 33-31. Captain Al Wukovits netted 13 points to lead our boys to a 47-40 win over a stubborn Ryan five in the next contest, and shortly after, O.L.V. could do nothing against the sharp attack of the Canisius quintet and went home soundly trounced.

SITY

Looking down at five sticks of dynamite. Around the clock, Tryjankowski, Williams, Bissonette, Cusack, Labinski.

Tryjankowski, Maier, Walters.

The team went on the road to meet the Timon Tigers and returned with a hard-earned 29-27 victory. After turning in impressive wins over St. Mary's of Lancaster and St. Mary's of the Deaf, the Crusaders were handed their third defeat by a powerful St. Francis squad, 33-28. The Blue and Gold played its best game of the year in defeating the Duffy Irish 52-46. On their home court, Holy Angels and Annunciation were the next victims. Following this, Neumann journeyed to Delaware Ave. to try and repeat their earlier surprise. But they were the ones surprised this time and the boys from Williamsville scurried home, wishing they had never heard the name of Canisius.

Wukovits whips the cords.

Pat's push for points.

Bucky banks one.

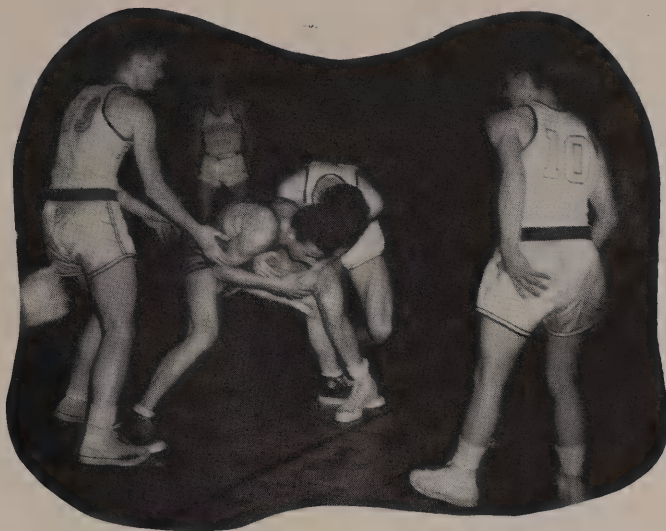

Away again, Ryan felt our wrath again, 55-46. Playing their last home game of the season, the Crusaders racked up victory No. 13, at the expense of St. Mary's of the Deaf. In their last two games of the season, the team came out with an even split.

O.L.V. was defeated while Duffy rallied in the second half to send the Crusaders home with a loss.

So, the Crusaders ended the season as they had begun it, with a loss. It seems that the in-between was what counted as the Blue and Gold finished the season in third place with a 14 to 4 record.

In the Manhattan Cup play-offs, St. Joe's beat Duffy while Canisius lost to a still-more-rugged St. Francis squad in the semi-finals. St. Francis went on to win the play-offs, defeating St. Joe's 54-47, while Canisius downed Duffy 55-42 in the consolation game. Thus the curtain closed for another year, with the final tally, counting the play-offs, at 15 to 5.

Breaking the deep freeze.

Byrnes burns it in.

Playing before a season's crowd of approximately one hundred and fifty thousand basketball fans, the Acrions this year rolled up eighteen victories and two ties against five defeats. Our Memorial Auditorium stars proved that height isn't everything in basketball. The Canisius five-foot fivesome outscored their opponents by almost 150 points, to bring fresh glory on the Blue and Gold.

SWIMMING TEAM

Stephens comes up for air.

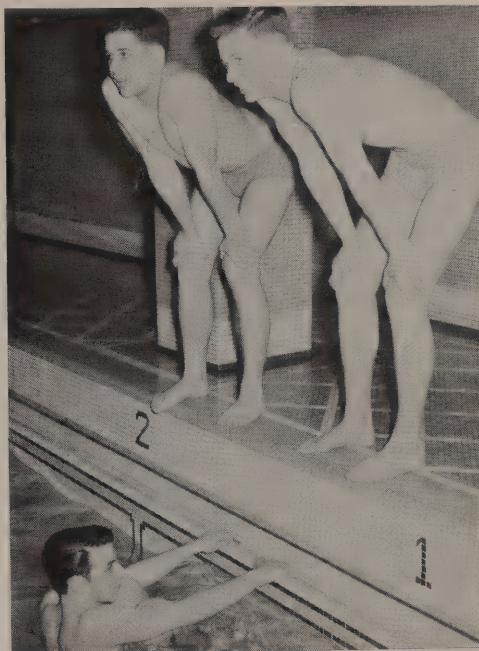

The Canisius Aqua-squad really made a name for itself this year on the Niagara Frontier and elsewhere along the Atlantic seaboard. The tanksters won five out of their six meets. Getting off to a slow start, they conceded a win to North Tonawanda to the tune of 25-41. In their next meet, playing host to Aquinas of Rochester, they rudely dumped them, 51-15, and at Rochester in their next meet, just about repeated their performance, 50-16. Riverside was next to go down in defeat, 37-29, followed in quick succession by East, 40-26, and Tech, 45-21.

B-51 Berst.

Teamed For Tank Trophies; Keppel (in water),
Buchheit, Regan.

The Relay Team of Regan, Keppel and Buchheit deserve special mention. They were the bulwark behind every victory and were outstanding in two other Swim Meets during the season.

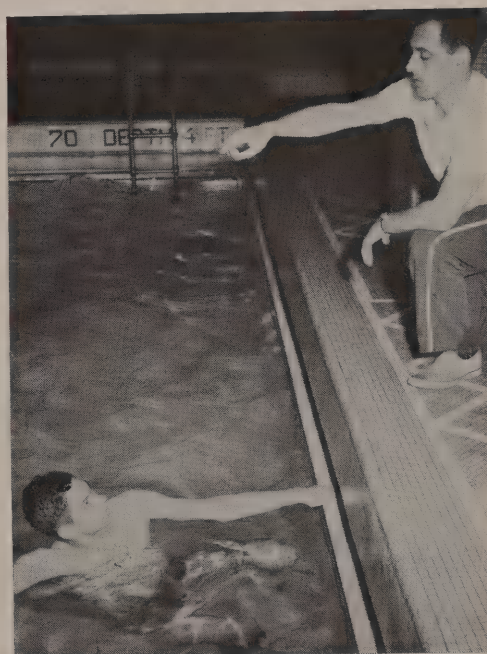

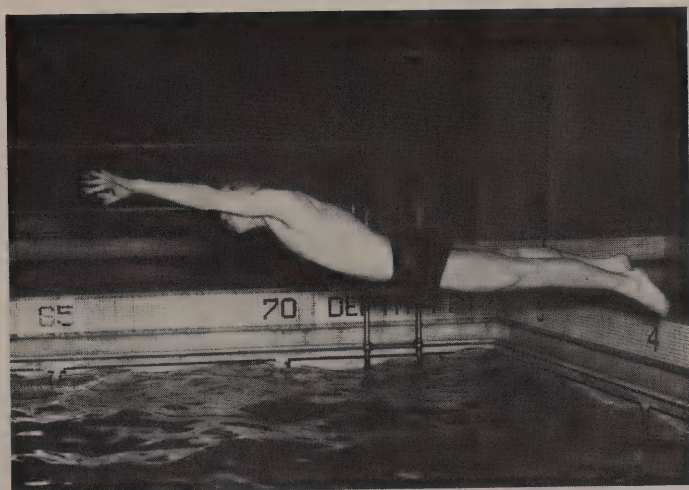

In the middle of February, this trio romped off to Trenton, N. J., for the Eastern States Meet, and brought credit to Canisius by capturing a total of 12 points, runner-up to fourth place in the meet, no mean accomplishment, considering the schools represented from all over the East.

About a month later, the same three entered the annual BAC meet, and whispers of "There's that Canisius team" rippled through the pool as they lined up for their heat. In the finals, Buchheit won the 100 yd. breaststroke, Regan placed second in the 100 yd. freestyle, and Keppel third in the 100 yd. backstroke. The time of their victory in the medley relay was 1:24:6, unofficially equal to the All-High record held by Bennett.

Although he did not reach the finals in this same Meet, Dan Gus, an up-and-coming Soph, deserves special mention because he placed fourth in the qualifying heats for the 50 yd. freestyle. With so many entries in that particular race, Dan did a good job for his first year with the team.

In Appreciation

The Class of Nineteen-Fifty wishes to express its sincere gratitude to all who have assisted in the preparation and publishing of the 1950 Arena. We are especially indebted to:

Very Rev. James R. Barnett, S.J., Rev. Michael J. Costello, S.J., and all the other members of the faculty for their kind interest and assistance.

Marianne Studio for their cooperation and care in handling the photography in this Annual.

Mr. Frank Maher, of Holling Press, and Mr. Raymond Sturtzer, of Rapid Service Engraving, who were most instrumental in the final production work.

The members of the staff and those not of the staff who contributed so generously of their time and abilities.

All our patrons and advertisers for their indispensable support.
